

Excavations at Carmarthen Greyfriars 1983-1990

THE TOPIC REPORTS IN ELECTRONIC FORMAT

ENTER HERE

© CAMBRIA ARCHAEOLOGY 2001

These electronic documents are all in Portable Document Format (.pdf) and can be read using Adobe Acrobat™ Reader. This software is freely available and free to use. A copy is contained on the CD. Within Acrobat is a useful help system and you are encouraged to learn its main functions so as to get the best out of the powerful navigation system which allows you to go to and from cross-references (e.g. illustrations).

Acrobat Reader can be obtained from <http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html>.

The layout of the Floortile, Pottery and 1997 Excavation reports is in A4 portrait format because the original intention was to produce these for hard-copy output only. The Small Finds and Human Bone reports were designed in landscape format primarily for viewing on screen. All reports can be printed from within Acrobat Reader.

As well as the .pdf files, the parent wordprocessed files in Word format are available. Copies of higher resolution drawings and photographs from the Small Finds and Human Bone reports are available in sub-directories of the CD. If you are viewing this over the World Wide Web then you need to purchase a copy of the CD from Cambria Archaeology (<http://www.acadat.com>). Although all reports are the copyright of Cambria Archaeology, they can be copied for non-profit-making purposes.

FORWARD:

BACK

13th 16th century Earthenware and Oolitic Limestone Floortiles

Terrence James & Deirdre Brennan

Pottery, Ridgetile and Ceramic Waterpipe

Cathy O'Mahoney

The small finds and other artifacts

Deirdre Brennan

The 1997 Rescue Excavations

Andy Manning

Analysis of Skeletal Remains

Dr L. J. Wilkinson

Analysis of Skeletal Remains

VOLUME I: Summary of Findings & Photographs

VOLUME II Detailed Descriptions

(Click here to view Copies of Photographs at Higher Resolution)

BACK